PRE-PLANNING AND YOUR GALLERY VISIT

This education resource is designed for teachers and students of English as a Second Language (ESL). It provides background and context to the exhibition and to the Ian Potter Museum of Art.

Prior to a gallery visit, students and teachers are advised to utilise the information contained in this resource and to complete the language activities. Further research can be gained by reading the exhibition catalogue and accessing the Ian Potter Museum of Art and dedicated Basil Sellers Art Prize websites: <www.art-museum.unimelb.edu.au> and <www.sellersartprize.com.au/artists-an-exhibition/2012>

A gallery visit and/or talk with the education officer will need to be booked in advance. Please contact the gallery on 8344 5148 to speak to the education officer or front of house to book a date and time and to discuss key ideas or curriculum outcomes appropriate for the student’s English proficiency. It is recommended that students are well briefed and aware of what to expect in relation to gallery protocol prior to visiting the Potter.

The purpose of museums

In pairs, ask your partner the following questions:

1. What is a museum and what is inside it?
2. Have you visited a museum before? Where?
3. Did you enjoy it? What did you like about it?
4. Who works in a museum?
5. What other things do museums do?
6. Are there museums in your home country? What are they called and what do they have inside?
7. Do you like visiting museums? Why or why not?
8. Do you think museums are important?
9. Read the statements below and underline the words you do not understand. Use a dictionary to find the meaning of the words.

Speak

Talk about the following statements with your partner. When discussing each statement, ask your partner:

a) Do you agree or disagree with the statement?
b) Why do you agree or disagree with the statement?

A museum is a place where beautiful and valuable works of art are kept.

A museum can tell us about our country’s history and culture.

A museum holds artworks from other countries and helps us understand different cultures and lifestyles.

A museum is for people who like to see art and who know about art.

A museum is like an encyclopedia. It teaches people about things they don’t know.

Museums help to preserve old things.

Museums are for everybody to visit regardless of age, culture, gender, language and education.

A museum is an exciting place where people can learn about how the artworks are made and why they are made.

Museums are an important part of our society.

THE BASIL SELLERS ART PRIZE 2012

The Basil Sellers Art Prize is an art competition. The aim of the prize is to allow contemporary artists to make art that is about the theme of sport and sporting culture in Australia.

The Basil Sellers Art prize began in 2008. The prize will be awarded once every two years until 2016. 2012 is the third year of the prize. The prize is open to artists working in any style and media including photography, film, painting and sculpture.

There were 300 entries for the prize in 2012. The entries were shortlisted. The exhibition shows the artworks of the 15 shortlisted artists. The judges decide which artist will win the prize. $100,000 is awarded to the artist who wins the prize.

People who visit the exhibition can also vote for their favourite artwork. This is called the People's Choice award. The artist who gets the most votes from the People's Choice award will win $5,000.

A businessman and donor called Basil Sellers AM gives the prize to the winning artist. Basil Sellers lives in Sydney. The Basil Sellers Art Prize exhibition is held in Melbourne at the Ian Potter Museum of Art. This is because Melbourne is the sporting capital of Australia. Basil Sellers keeps the winning artwork in his art collection. The Basil Sellers Art Prize is the 2nd richest prize in Australia.

In 2008, the artist called Daniel Crooks won the prize for his artwork titled, Static no. 11 (man running).

In 2010, the artists Tarryn Gill and Pilar Mata Dupont won the prize for their artwork titled, Gymnasium.

Brook Andrew’s artwork, Australia 1 (2012), shows a drawing by a scientist called William Blandowski. Blandowski went on a journey to the Murray and Darling river in Australia in 1856-57 to write about the culture of the Aboriginal people. Blandowski was on the journey, he made many drawings about Aboriginal life. The painting by Andrew shows the Aborigines playing a sporting game. The Aborigines are catching the feather of an Australian bird called the emu. the Aborigines start the game, they decide the rules of the game. In this game there are two teams. One team holds the feathers and the other team must try to take the feathers off them. However, the rules of the game are easy to understand, the game still becomes messy and confusing. The painting is about the old games the Aborigines used to play. today, the news on television and newspapers do not show the achievements of Aboriginal people in sport. the Europeans arrived in Australia in 1788, the history of Aboriginal sporting games were forgotten. the drawing is very old, Andrew used new materials to make the painting. Andrew printed the drawing onto gold foil to show the beauty of the landscape.

10,000 people can sit in the Alberca Olímpica Francisco Márquez pool. The pool was used in the Olympics in 1968 in Mexico.

Lauren Brincat is the artist and performer in the film, 10 metre platform (2012). Brincat made the film between May and June 2012 in Mexico City. Brincat went to the Alberca Olímpica Francisco Márquez indoor swimming pool to make the video for the Basil Sellers Art Prize 2012 exhibition.

Brincat wanted to hang on the diving board until she fell into the swimming pool. However, she could not hang and fall. The film crew was watching Brincat while she was trying to fall.

Therefore, Brincat felt that she failed in the task. It was not a happy ending.

However, even though Brincat failed to fall from the diving board, her video was shortlisted for the prize.
